THE GREAT DYNAMITE PLOT.

Against the Prisoners. (By telegraph to the Dispatch,)

Curcago, July 13 .- A startling outline of case against the members of the Brother-ol of Engineers and Firemen accused of applicity in a large dynamite plot against Attorney Ewing immediately upon the arraigment of six of the accused—their Isuactsen and his comrades, Godding, Wison, Bowles, Broderick, and Smith. The rison, flowles, Broderics, and Smith. The resonther caused a great sensation among the crowd of ratiroad-men, lawvers, and re-orders that filled every inch of room in the surt. The statement of the District itorney was apparently based largely on the conters that filled every inch of room in the court. The statement of the District Attorney was apparently based largely on the part from the other defendants, and not-part from the other defendants, and noton the cheeks of Bauereisen and Godding

District-Attorney Ewing spoke as follows: May it please the court, I desire to say in presenting the statement of what I expect to prove that I think it will appear from evidence that on about May 23th last, at the town of Eola, four or five miles from the accured, went into the foom of Charman Hoge, of the Brotherhood, at the lattler's rooms in the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago and showed him a number of dynamite cartridges, and that they tolked there about the use of these cartridges. A very few days afterwards this explosion at Eola took place. It will appear further that some three or four days before that explosion and feet the appear appears to the explosion and the transfer of the cartridges. This was on the 14th day of June, the day of the Brother-hood piente. Smith told him he had not, and Bauereisen replied that that would be a pretty rood night to do it. Smith got the cartridge and went down to South Aurora and put the cartridge on the track. The next day after he did that he met the defendant Bauereisen, and the latter again asked him if Bauereisen, and the latter again asked him if he had let off any of that stuff. He told blue that he had, and Bauereisen told him he thought so because he had heard the explo-sion. Now the evidence will show that on

But they had miscalculated the extent of the builtin sontiment and the number of new buyers in the market, so that after some attempts to hammer the list down a covering movement of large proportions sat in before nooh. Londen had a large number of buying orders at the opening, which gave the market most of its cerry strongth but the feature of the trading was the buying by the commission people who have been tile for so long. St. Paul was the great centre of attraction to-day, and the upward movement in it was early started by the calling in of 18,000 shares of loaned stock for shipment abroad, but thiesgre was also a buyer, and reports emanating from that source were builtien in the extreme and the shorts covered, which ran the total transactions in the stock up to a high fluore and placed it in the lead of the alvance. New England was another strong card. The favorable appearance of trunk line matter stimulated buying in those stocks, and Vanderbilts, which soid ex-dividend to-day, and the covered the dividend by the close. Besides the advance in the general list there were several sharp miorements among the lead to the populage, and before the end of the first hour both had advanced over a point. The activity stocks, and Manicoba, Nickelplate preferred, and tops, and before the end of the first hour both had advanced over a point. The activity underwent come reaction, but a strong long conditions to the front, and the latter specialities and popularity, but the list soon railted, and the market closed quies but strong at the best prices of the day. Sales aggregated 700,000 shares.

that of several days past. Offerings of some were unsuccessful, and nearly all wers taken in. Several private sales made a day or two back have transpired. These include a line of good cutters and some more wrappers than were reported. We wish it was in our power to have to have sales promptly and properly reported, which would be undoubtedly to the advantage of our market, as well as that of the individual seller and buyer and shippers. This secrecy does no one any good, and it is not what other large markets do. They want the world to know that there is life in the market, thus drawing the trade of buyer and seller. Both go to a live market.

Another trade of severalhundred hogsheads is pending, and may be consummated for the Italian account to-day, while there are several is hope that large large sales may be reported in shipping leaf soon, and we doubt not that our grades of leaf will not be neglected, we are sure. The surplus is in the medium and common sorts.

Because continue may account to the mean of the market. Out inspection here receipts were transpilled to the being to supplie the conscious to-day, while there are several than a soul and the surface of leaf will not be neglected, we are sure. The surplus is in the medium and common sorts.

Out inspection here reached $12,000 bushels, while the receipts were many cars short of the satimate, and only seventy cars of contract grazie came in. The vessel room taken for corn was quite liberal. July sold at $1% and $1% and $1% c. closing at $1% c. August went from 48 to $1% c. carry, back to $1% and $2. contract grazies and the corn of the day. There was at times lively inforest in sats, but the range of prices was narrow and prices neut lower with wheat and corn. July sold at $10. And down to 50% at the close. August oats ranged at 20c, to $2% c, closing at $2%. There was fair apaculative business in pork and short-ribs, but lard was quiet and shoady. Arrivals of hogs were light, and prices failed higher. At the opening as increased demand existed from shorts, and it was suspected that one of the big packors manted to buy, as his trader was in the pit hidding. He only purchased 1,500 barrow of pork. The pure advanced if yet, but after the buyers withdrew receded $26c, but became firmer towards the close. The last sales were but $5c, above the inside figures at $13.20c. Annuary sold at $12.50c. Short-rite were sold freely but the market held stondy and closed at $7.50c. Lard sold moderately at $2.50c. $6. Lard sold moderately at $2.50c.
